

Minute about the Iran war approved by Boulder Friends Meeting at our monthly Meeting for Worship with Concern for Business on 8 March 2026

Boulder Friends Meeting utterly rejects a reliance on war and the imposition of the will of one group on another through the aggressive use of military force. We know from experience that violence cannot end hatred between people. Only actions guided by love can do that. The current military attack on Iran is morally wrong, indefensible, and contrary to our national interests.

For more than 350 years, the Religious Society of Friends has sought a world without war, actively seeking to build peace among nations and address the root causes of violence. We are called to uphold justice, to advance nonviolent solutions to conflict, and to promote peaceful cooperation among all peoples.
