

SILENT IN WORSHIP. LOUD AGAINST GUN VIOLENCE.

PREPARING FOR POST-MARCH ADVOCACY

We call on Congress for a comprehensive gun violence prevention strategy that will:

- Address the many forms of gun violence, including mass shootings, accidental shootings, police shootings, domestic and intimate partner violence, and suicide, through context-sensitive approaches;
- Promote and strengthen community engagement by implementing community-based violence intervention and prevention programs;
- Limit access to equipment that makes mass shootings deadlier;
- Preserve civil liberties and anti-discrimination protections;
- Implement safety checks for all gun buyers;
- Advance evidence-based gun violence prevention.

Any effective legislation that Congress introduces should include:

- Repeal of the “Dickey Amendment” to allow federal health agencies to conduct research into the causes, effects, and evidence-based prevention of gun violence in our communities,
- Universal background checks on every gun purchase,
- A ban on all high-capacity weapons and ammunition magazines, and
- Reinstate the assault weapons ban.

Start up a relationship with your member of Congress and let them know that you are in this for the long haul. Contact your member of Congress by calling (202) 224-3121. Email. Write letters. Write a letter to the editor. And most importantly, visit your local offices.

 Friends Committee on National Legislation » A Quaker Lobby in the Public Interest » fcnl.org

SILENT IN WORSHIP. LOUD AGAINST GUN VIOLENCE.

PREPARING FOR POST-MARCH ADVOCACY

We call on Congress for a comprehensive gun violence prevention strategy that will:

- Address the many forms of gun violence, including mass shootings, accidental shootings, police shootings, domestic and intimate partner violence, and suicide, through context-sensitive approaches;
- Promote and strengthen community engagement by implementing community-based violence intervention and prevention programs;
- Limit access to equipment that makes mass shootings deadlier;
- Preserve civil liberties and anti-discrimination protections;
- Implement safety checks for all gun buyers;
- Advance evidence-based gun violence prevention.

Any effective legislation that Congress introduces should include:

- Repeal of the “Dickey Amendment” to allow federal health agencies to conduct research into the causes, effects, and evidence-based prevention of gun violence in our communities,
- Universal background checks on every gun purchase,
- A ban on all high-capacity weapons and ammunition magazines, and
- Reinstate the assault weapons ban.

Start up a relationship with your member of Congress and let them know that you are in this for the long haul. Contact your member of Congress by calling (202) 224-3121. Email. Write letters. Write a letter to the editor. And most importantly, visit your local offices.

 Friends Committee on National Legislation » A Quaker Lobby in the Public Interest » fcnl.org

Sample Call Script:

I am (name) and I live in (city/ state). We need to confront America's gun violence epidemic and enact policies that reduce death and injury from gunfire. I believe that Congress has a moral obligation to act, and can pass common sense, responsible legislation. At the very least, we need:

- Repeal of the "Dickey Amendment" to allow federal health agencies to conduct research into the causes, effects, and evidence-based prevention of gun violence in our communities,
- Universal background checks on every gun purchase,
- A ban on all high-capacity weapons and ammunition magazines, and
- Reinstate the assault weapons ban.

Sample Call Script:

I am (name) and I live in (city/ state). We need to confront America's gun violence epidemic and enact policies that reduce death and injury from gunfire. I believe that Congress has a moral obligation to act, and can pass common sense, responsible legislation. At the very least, we need:

- Repeal of the "Dickey Amendment" to allow federal health agencies to conduct research into the causes, effects, and evidence-based prevention of gun violence in our communities,
- Universal background checks on every gun purchase,
- A ban on all high-capacity weapons and ammunition magazines, and
- Reinstate the assault weapons ban.

Sample Letter to the Editor:

I just returned from D.C. where I was one of the hundreds of thousands of people asking Congress to immediately enact comprehensive gun violence prevention legislation. Our children demand that our government, school systems and the adults in their lives take gun violence seriously, and take steps to face the root causes of violence in our society. As a Quaker, I support our youth in their vision of a world without a ubiquitous background of violence, and a world where people learn how to express feelings of anger and pain constructively. We have been numb to this need for too long. An issue this important should not be polarizing and it should not be postponed. We should look towards peace through compromise and engagement. This is an issue for us to unite around in protection of the kids and people we love. Right now we can and must pass three pieces of legislation that will make a difference for Americans.

- Repeal of the "Dickey Amendment" to allow federal health agencies to conduct research into the causes, effects, and evidence-based prevention of gun violence in our communities,
- Universal background checks on every gun purchase,
- A ban on all high-capacity weapons and ammunition magazines, and
- Reinstate the assault weapons ban

We hold the belief that establishing lasting safety is more important than solely ensuring physical defense. The idea of bringing guns into schools to protect from shooters- who often are students themselves- is a violence that is just as scary as the threat it's reacting to. Our schools are not war zones.

Sample Letter to the Editor:

I just returned from D.C. where I was one of the hundreds of thousands of people asking Congress to immediately enact comprehensive gun violence prevention legislation. Our children demand that our government, school systems and the adults in their lives take gun violence seriously, and take steps to face the root causes of violence in our society. As a Quaker, I support our youth in their vision of a world without a ubiquitous background of violence, and a world where people learn how to express feelings of anger and pain constructively. We have been numb to this need for too long. An issue this important should not be polarizing and it should not be postponed. We should look towards peace through compromise and engagement. This is an issue for us to unite around in protection of the kids and people we love. Right now we can and must pass three pieces of legislation that will make a difference for Americans.

- Repeal of the "Dickey Amendment" to allow federal health agencies to conduct research into the causes, effects, and evidence-based prevention of gun violence in our communities,
- Universal background checks on every gun purchase,
- A ban on all high-capacity weapons and ammunition magazines, and
- Reinstate the assault weapons ban

We hold the belief that establishing lasting safety is more important than solely ensuring physical defense. The idea of bringing guns into schools to protect from shooters- who often are students themselves- is a violence that is just as scary as the threat it's reacting to. Our schools are not war zones.